EXPLANATIONS

■ Regarding the Whitelist

The occupations were selected based on the Federal Employment Agency's skilled-worker bottleneck analysis, which is available online at the following location: www.statistik.arbeitsagentur.de > Labour market reports > demand for skilled workers and jobs > Current bottleneck analysis

The bottleneck analysis focuses on nationwide bottlenecks, supplemented by a regional view on the level of the federal states.

For the Whitelist according to section 6 paragraph. 2 Sentence 1 No. 2 of the Employment regulation, occupations from the skilled-worker bottleneck analysis were selected for which no other possibilities of labour market entry exist, e.g. the EU Blue Card for academics. The newly added occupations are underlined.

The skilled worker's bottleneck analysis is updated every six months. The next bottleneck analyses will be carried out in the 2nd half of 2019. The whitelist is only to be updated, however, if two consecutive reviews of the available information indicate that the list should be changed.

■ Regarding the qualification level

Qualification level 2 - skilled worker - corresponds to a professionally oriented activity which requires at least two years of vocational training or comparable qualification.

Qualification level 3 - Specialist - is assigned to occupations that require special knowledge and special skills, which usually require a master or technician training or an equivalent technical college or university degree.

General information on labour market entry for foreign applicants is available on the Internet at www.arbeitsagentur.de/arbeitsmarktzulassung

YOUR PATH TO GERMANY AS A SKILLED WORKER

The Employment Regulation (BeschV), which entered into force on 1 July 2013, created the basis for facilitating the immigration of skilled workers into Germany.

According to section 6 para.2 sentence 1 no. 2 of this Regulation, consent may be granted for foreign nationals who have acquired their professional qualification abroad to pursue employment corresponding to their professional qualification in a state-recognised or comparably regulated training occupation, if the body responsible for vocational recognition under the regulations of the Federal Government or the state regulation has established the equivalence of the professional qualification with qualified vocational training in Germany and the Federal Employment Agency for the relevant occupation or occupational group has determined, differentiated according to regional particularities, that filling the vacancies with foreign applicants is justifiable in terms of labour market and integration policy.

The consent is granted without the fundamental examination required to determine whether preferential employees are available to fill the position. However, the employment conditions offered must correspond to those of comparable domestic employees.

Following on from the "EU Blue Card" for highly qualified people, improved recognition of foreign professional qualifications and easier entry opportunities for students from non-EU countries, the Whitelist is a further important step towards enabling employees from third countries to have uncomplicated access to the German labour market and to meet the skilled labour needs of the German economy with qualified immigration.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT FOR YOU AS A WORKER?

If you have found your occupation on the "list of occupations" and would like to work in your trained occupation in Germany, you must now find out whether your training corresponds to that of a qualified training programme in Germany. You can find out whether this is the case, as well as how and where you can apply to have the equivalence of your qualification determined, by visiting the website: "Recognition in Germany".

Once this check is completed and you have been issued with a certificate from the relevant authority confirming the equivalence of your training to a German programme of education, you may, upon presentation of this certificate, apply for an entry visa at the German diplomatic mission or consular post abroad in your home country. If you are already living in Germany or can travel there without a visa, then the immigration office (Ausländerbehörde) in your municipality is responsible for you.

It may be necessary to acquire additional theoretical knowledge and/or professional experience in your home country to determine the equivalence of your degree. With a residence title (Aufenthaltstitel) according to section 17a of the Residence Act (AufenthG), you are permitted to enter Germany to do a training programme for a duration of up to 18 months if such a programme is required to determine the equivalence of your qualification. In addition to doing the training programme, you can work up to ten hours per week independently of such a programme. In the case of a job that is closely related on an occupational level to the occupation you intend to carry out in the future, there are no time limits in relation to doing such work.

If you have a residence permit according to section 17a of the Residence Act you can also enter Germany to take the examination required to determine the equivalence of your foreign qualifications.

If proof of professional experience but not the acquisition of additional theoretical knowledge is required to determine the equivalence of your degree, you can also receive a residence permit for the purpose of employment with the consent of the Federal Employment Agency (section 18 of the Residence Act (AufenthG), in conjunction with section 8 of the Employment Regulation (BeschV)).
